Please, watch the news, including online or on your phone.
For those of you who wrote a paper, but were not able to present, I need you to start getting yourself ready to record a presentation of your paper.

We are still waiting on word from the President, FLDOE, MDCPS, and MNW on the re-opening of schools.

If we cannot reopen our conventional means of education, then you will have to email me your presentation.

Those who have presented, I will start putting the grades in soon. You will see those grades this week.

And Justice for All

Her father got her the job. Amanda was between semesters at college, and her work at the mall wouldn't do much for her when she got out of school. It was time to do something more serious, something that meant more to her. Many of her friends were getting internships in the city, working for this or that publishing house or TV studio. Amanda, however, wanted something different. She would start applying to law schools soon and she wanted to know what the law looked like in action.
